

Dr. V. Bailey Gillespie

Adventist Educator V. Bailey Gillespie, age 75, passed to his rest early on Monday, May 7, at City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte, California. Gillespie had been battling liver cancer since early 2017. Gillespie was tireless in his efforts to help the Adventist Church reach young people for Christ, and spearheaded the Valuegenesis research project.

“Our hearts are heavy, and we grieve with the Gillespie family at this time,” says Randal Wisbey, president of La Sierra University, who notes that Bailey developed a process for spiritual master-planning on Adventist campuses, including La Sierra. “We thank God for the ways in which Dr. Gillespie blessed so many lives. His strong personal faith and commitment to grace-filled ministry leave a lasting legacy to La Sierra and the Church.”
